SATURDAY EVE'NG., NOVEMBER 14.

BISHOP JOHNS IN NEW YORK. - Bishop Johns preached to a large audience at the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity, on Forty-second street, last Sunday morning, upon holding fast the profession of faith. He illustrated his subject at first in the historical way by showing the steps through which the names in partfirst Christians went in professing their faith and maintained that the same methods of faith -- baptism, confirmation and communion-were to be taken now. He then dwelt upon the nature of faith and its ground in the free grace of God through Christ crucified, and not in the personal perfection of the believer. He closed his sermon by urging his hearers to take a positive stand in the evangelical faith, and to hold fast to it to the end. The Bishop, although in his seventy-ninth year, and not in vigorous health, preached with earnestness, wholly without notes, and held the respectful attention of his audience. He was consecrated at Richmond October 13, 1842, thirty-two years ago, and he is fifth in order of seniority in the House of Bishops, having only Bishops Smith, McCoskry, Whittingham, and Lee in advance of him. He speaks, in conversation, cheerfully of the prospects of his State in every respect. He thinks that business is rapidly recovering from the disasters of the war, and that the vast mineral and agricultural resources of Virginia are to give her great prosperity in the future. He is cheered by the proceedings of the General Convention, and says that all fears of discord are set at rest by the decided action of the delegates upon the most important subjects. His diocese is interesting as being the primitive seat of the American Protestant Episcopal Church, and its strong Protestant spirit is readily explained, from its dating from a time (1607) before the High Church reaction had shown itself in England under Archbishop Laud. The first church built by English Episcopalians in America was at Jamestown, and there is a portion of its tower still to be seenthe ancient landmark of the place where the first colonial assembly ever convened in America met June 29, 1619.—N. Y. Evening Post A PRISON ROMANCE. - A singular prison romance has just been disclosed in the Canadian penitentiary at Kingston, where Elizabeth Jones has for six years been confined for the murder of her cousin, sentence having been pronounced on her own confession. Her father was executed for the same crime, notwithstanding the declaration of the girl that she alone had committed the deed, and that he was not guilty-indeed knew nothing of the murder. She has now admitted-what has always been generally believed by the public, but by herself strenuously denied—that her father was the murderer, and that she had accused herself of his crime to shield him, and at his desire. She took no part in the crime, and was not aware of its commission till her father told her he had done it, and implored her to save him, a task which she devotedly attempted and persisted in after it was hopeless.
